HIGH SCHOOL BOYS TOBACCO ADDICTS

Survey of Indianapolis High Schools Shows Big Majority of Smokers.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 16.—High school girls and boys, rather than those in the universities and colleges in Indiana, are more given to the use of tobacco, according to information obtained by Charles M. Fillmore of Indianapolis, general secretary of the No-Tobacco League of America.

Mr. Fillmore said he was told recently that from 75 to 90 percent of the boys attending the three Indianapolis high schools used tobacco in some form. He added, however, that he believed this was an exaggeration. Few girls in the local high schools smoke, he said he had been informed.

"There are more girls and women in Illinois smoking than there are in Indiana," the general secretary said. However, there are some instances where the cigarette has a firm hold on our young women. Recently, I was told of one of the brightest students at the high school in Bloomington, Ind., being found in a secluded place smoking a cigarette. She was attending a social function, but the tobacco habit had formed so strongly that she evidently had to satisfy the craving."

Indiana has been connected with the no-tobacco movement for three years, Mr. Fillmore said. He said the membership at the present time was approximately 2,000, and was about equally divided between men and women. J. E. Ramsey of Bloomington, is president of the state organization. Other officers are Mrs. Daisy Douglas Barr of New Castle, vice-president; Dr. Homer A. Hall, Franklin, executive secretary; and the Rev. C. M. Kraft, Indianapolis, treasurer.

Police Say Mysterious Death Will Be Cleared Up Within 24 Hours.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., May 16.—Solution of the murder of Guy Nichols, within 24 hours was assured by members of the local police department and county authorities. Nichols, whose body was found Saturday on the interurban tracks near here after it had been struck by a car, was said by authorities to have been murdered and placed on the tracks to hide the crime.

Coroner J. L. Fortune, who on the finding of the body, was of the opinion that the man committed suicide and that the body was placed on the tracks by some persons interested in the $2,000 life insurance policy which he is said to have carried.

When Nichols was last seen alive by members of his family, he had left the house to pump a bucket of water. When he did not return, a search was made for him and the bucket was found hanging on a fence near the pump.

Thomas Kehoe, told detectives Monday that shortly before the body was found, he saw a large touring car speed to the place and stop. Several knife gashes were found on the body, and for this reason, the coroner believed the man committed suicide.
